

Resume Builder Project: Use Cases

The ideal user would be computer science students looking to get interviews for internships or full-time positions, who feel as though they may not have a strong resume or a decent starting point to building one. This app would provide them a simple way to generate a resume to be used for applying to jobs